FOREWORD

This Sentinel is being published on the 50th anniversary of the University on its present campus, and might appropriately include something of these 50 past years. We have dug through our files of old and dusty Sentinels, gleaned a few interesting bits of history and ancient photographs, and sprinkled them through the book to show you the contrast between then and now. As you will see, there has been progress . . . or at least change.

Now, there is no doubt that when the staff of the anniversary edition of 1996 starts making old books for ideas, the hair styles, clothes and affected poses of the 1940's will get their due share of laughs and ridicule. But we who have plastered our likenesses in the 1946 Sentinel for the future to admire, need worry for our vanity less than most of our contemporaries, for we will have beside us, to draw at least some of the fire, pictures fifty years lunatic.

WHAT THE FUTURE HOLDS FOR M. S. U.

The year 1945-46 has been one of exceptional importance for the world, for the nation, and for the University. The advent of the atomic age poses exceptionally, a threat to our very existence and a promise of brighter advances in the material and spiritual of human lives. The nation confronts its most destructive war, knows a new era of peace. The atmosphere, as never before, will be asked to for leadership and enlightenment by people faced with the alternatives of destruction or perpetual peace through men.

Accordingly, Montana State University, during the current year, celebrates her semi-centennial anniversary. A review of this last fifty years of distinguished service demonstrates her dedication to the challenging tasks ahead.

What does the future hold for Montana State University? The answer to that question depends on many things. The capacity of the University structure, quality and amount of facilities and expert the opportunities for expanded new areas of service, the willingness and determination of the citizens of Montana to provide the resources requisite for a great University.

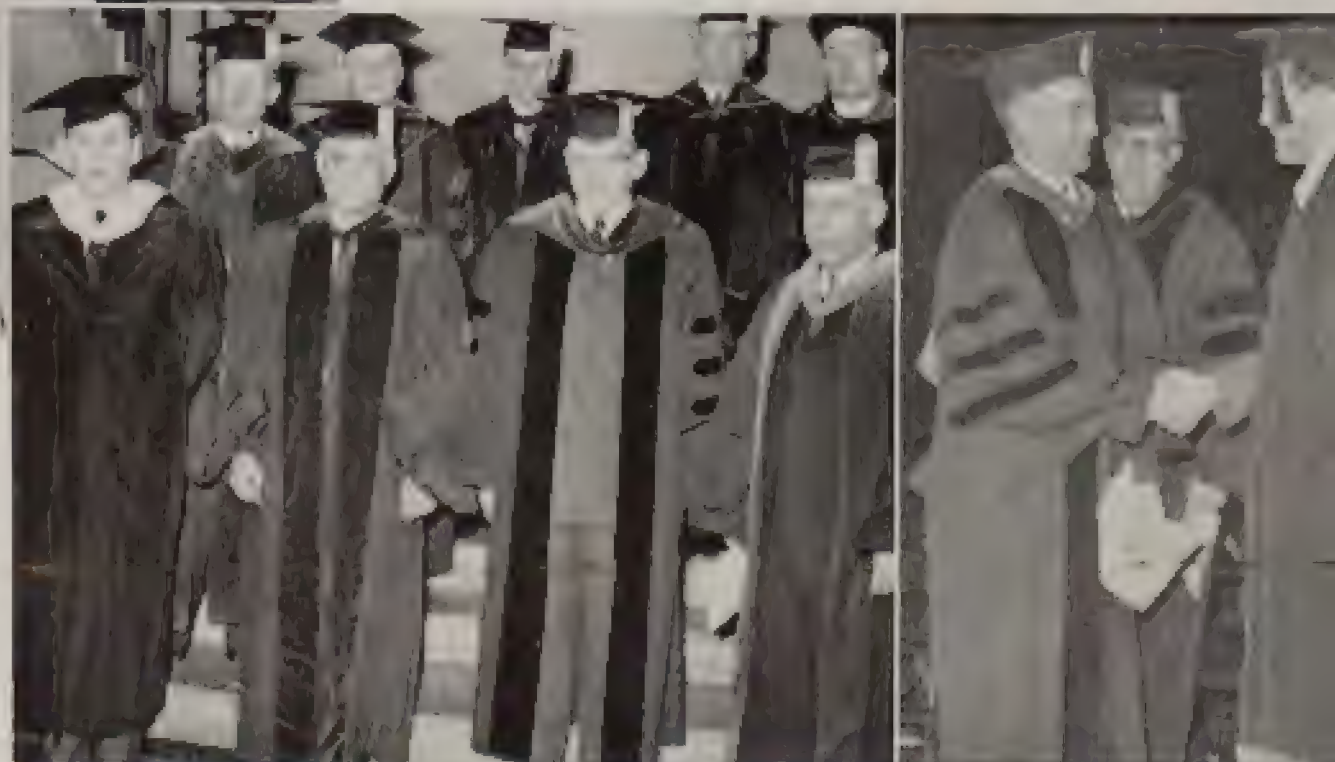

If we rise to the challenge of this hour and we can visualize in this campus in the years just ahead a half dozen magnificent new buildings for instruction and research; a new field house and women's gymnasium, dedicated to better health and recreation; a faculty whose line are at the present time, institutions here on and off the campus serving the advancement of the entire population of Montana; and an unswerving commitment in service of their students, representing in their literature, culture and the highest scientific achievement in the talents of the youth of Montana.

The problems that pile up in the registration scramble are the headache of Registrar Everett G. Merrill and his office staff during the period.

Under the direction of Mrs. Kathleen Lintzinger the clerical staff is busy and all the business office does stenography and typewriting for departments which have no special stenographers and typewriters. It is led by Mrs. Helen Bailey, Mrs. Schneider, Mrs. Frances Lane, Henry Cook, Paul Byge.

President of the Alumni Association G. Porter speaks for the organization at President McMillan's inauguration banquet.

Alumni Secretary-Manager Andy Crowell and his secretary Mrs. Helen Warren have charge of all relations between alumni and the university and keep a big list of alumni addresses up to date.

Former Bureau Director G. D. Zuckerman and acting Secretary Mrs. Jean Robinson handle the placement of teachers in various schools about the state.

News Service Editor Edith Merrill sends general news of students' activities to their hometown papers and handles general publicity for the University.

Extension Service. Correspondence study and outside courses and lectures by university professors are directed by E. A. Atkinson and Secretary Mary Margaret Courtney.

STUDENTS' HEALTH SERVICE

Nurses Alma and Inger Anthony attend to the ailment of student William Denard.

Dr. Donald M. Hester is chairman of the University Health Committee.

Full time health service is maintained on the campus and made available to all students. A small fee charged students enrolled for class work makes possible competent medical service for those who become ill, and prevention of disease by such means as inoculations and physical examinations.

Hall Directors are the assistant deans and managers of the residence halls and direct the social functions of the halls. The other four members of 6 to 11 Mrs. Helen G. Gresham, office assistant; Miss Agnes E. Howe, assistant to the director; Mrs. Monica E. Swearingen, director of residence halls; Mrs. Gertrude H. Stewart, secretary and Mrs. Betty Dorene Berger, office assistant.

Maintenance Department. Maintenance Engineer, Thomas Swearingen with secretary Mrs. Esther Smith, has charge of the upkeep of campus grounds and buildings.

Summer Session Directors. Drs. W. B. Ames (left) and J. W. Mauker of the School of Education will be in charge of all arrangements for merged staff and social activities of the summer quarter.

CENTRAL BOARD

Secretary Margaret Garrison

Business Manager Pat Murphy

President Jane Jeffers is the first woman president that ASMSU has ever elected. One other woman served as president, but she moved up from the vice-presidency and filled out the term of the elected president who did not complete the school term.

Vice President Mary Brome

Officers and class delegates to Central Board are elected in the spring elections each year. Besides these members two faculty representatives and alumni representative, the Kumin editor, AWS president, traditions board chairman and ASMSU auditor sit on the board that carries on all government and activities of the Associated Students of Montana State University. This year a non-voting seat was created for the freshman class which had previously been without representation. Meetings of the all-powerful board are always open to members of the student body. Seated—Don Kern, sophomore representative, Pat Murphy, Margaret Garrison, Jane Jeffers, Dorothy Davis, senior delegate, Clinton Carter, second row—Bob Blair, Kumin editor, Mary Morrow, junior delegate, Dorothy Mather, AWS president, Marge Floyd, junior delegate, Edwin Briggs, faculty representative. In the back are Dr. Castle and Kirk Badgley.

Budget and Finance committee handles the money matters that ASMSU becomes involved in and makes all budget recommendations to Central Board. Left to right—Kirk Bridgley, ASMSU Auditor; Gordon Castle, faculty advisor; Pat Murphey, chairman; Marion Headley, Bob Notti.

Outside Entertainment committee makes arrangements for presentation of such outside entertainment as Community Concerts to the University students and faculty. Its members: Lois Reed, Louise McKenzie, Vern Hunter, Dean John Crowder.

Athletic Board. The budget and management of all major athletic sports are under the control of this central body. Board members posed at session—Mavis McCollins, Business Manager (Chairman) Pat Murphy, June Jones, Thomas Foxworth, Kirk Redley standing—John Sucky, Bob Tabor, George Savage, John Lury, Andrew Cogswell. Not pictured—Margaret Garrison, Barry Miller.

CENTRAL BOARD COMMITTEES

Publications Committee. Representatives of campus publications and faculty advisors, these editors and staff deal with various problems that arise concerning the publications. They select the best ideas for the year's publications. Committee members—Lee Jefferson, Helen Brown, Chairman, Gloria Carter, Lee Atkinson, Bob Switzer, Secretary—Harris Higgins, J. B. Cunningham, Cyndie Van Luster, Bob Peart. Not pictured—Ruth Olcott, Kirk Redley and E. B. Dugan.

Minor Sports Board. Swimming, tennis, golf and other sports that aren't considered major athletic events under the jurisdiction of a five member Central Board committee: Senior Delegate Charles Oates, Informant, Athletics Director Hugh Edwards, Student Minor Sports Manager Dawson Oppenheimer, ASMSU President June Jones, and Athletic Kirk Redley (not pictured).

INTERFRATERNITY COUNCIL

Interfraternity sports, rushing and social affairs are regulated by this council of interfraternity presidents. Chairman of the group, this year Theta Chi Bob Morris, is president. Seated—Bob Morris, and William Geuter, Sigma Nu; standing—Jerry Anderson, Sigma Chi; Orville Gray, Sigma Alpha Epsilon; Dean of Men J. E. Miller, advisor; Dick Merritt, Phi Sigma Kappa; Joe Beck, Phi Delta Theta.

Central Board, Store Board and the Student Union Executive Committee spent a long afternoon threshing out problems of Student Union improvement. At head of table, Jane Jeffers; standing, Kirk Badgley; on far side of table, Clinton Oster, Cyrile Van Duser, Helen Gleason, J. B. Gillingham, John Hoy; Vera Fisher, Bill Hinrichs, E. W. Briggs, Don Kern, Tom Swearingen, Morris McCollum. With backs to camera—Leona Haller, Paul Bischoff, Marion Badgley, Margaret Garrison, Pat Murphey, Mary Brome, Dorothy Davis, Bob Seitz, Harris Hogan.

PAN HELLENIC COUNCIL

The president and rushing chairman of each campus sorority sit on Pan Hellenic Council to coordinate activities of Greek Women and make inter-sorority rushing rules.

The offices of Pan Hel rotate among the sororities each year. This year Lillian Martin of Alpha Phi sits in the president's chair.

ASSOCIATED WOMEN STUDENTS

AWS representing all the women's living groups on the campus dictates a code of rules and regulations for all university women, and occasionally dishes out campused weekends to lawbreakers. It sponsors the counselor system for freshman women, and the Co-ed Ball.

Dorothy Mather was elected president of the women's governing body at last spring's elections and served until the end of fall quarter.

Representatives in AWS Seated—Shirley Powe, Treasurer Jean Bartley, Vice President Doris Brady, President Dorothy Mather, Secretary Minon Moody, Bess Mulligan. Standing—Frances Dehnert, Ellen Mae Bellette, June Sanders Burns, Leona Lumpi, Mary Jo Donohue, Marion Hendley, Louise Alcorn, Jo Ann Blair, Janet Robertson, Mary Eleanor Reapath, Mary Ellen Filer, Paulette Schaller, Hilda Myre.

The Office Supply helps Lucy Robolt Edwards say "destination altar."

Jack, Edythe, Art and Bob agree that it is Town Talk for food that's the talk of the town.

Serving everyone in the campus, it's the United Transit Co. for your convenience.

Let McAlley have Helene Kallonen an alarm clock from the Wallford Electric Co. so she won't be late for her date.

MISSOULA

The crowd always gathers at the Parisian Lounge in the Priess Hotel for informal entertainment.

Any hour of the day it's 'time for a coke' from the Coca-Cola Bottling Co.

The Star Garage is at your service 24 hours a day.

Edythe King will find everything on her list at the Sprouse-Reitz Co.

Pat Miller goes behind the scenes at the Peterson Drug Co. where expert pharmacists run till every need.

MISSOULA

Pat Emily showed jewelry from the B & H Jewelry Co. and gave them a gift.

The shelves of a store at the Stop 'N Shop.

Students who wanted to buy art supplies from the McKay Art Co. can supply them with their complete photography department.

It may never be as good as this . . .

And it may never be as good as this, but you can always depend on the Hotel Florence for courteous and efficient service.

BILLINGS

The goal of every MSTF member like Wally Stephens and Bill Rist is to own a new Ford from the Archie Cochran Motors.

Virginia Farmer's mouth waters as she watches the chef in The Turt prepare a scizzingly delicious steak.

ACTIVITIES

The semi-weekly rush for the Kaimin to read campus activities.

Responsible for the copy in the Josh section of the 1906 Sentinel are: (l. to r.) Grace Flynn, John D. Jones, Fay Murray, and Hutter and Ambelle Ross.

A joint meeting of the Clarkia and Hawthorne clubs. The Clarkia club was organized for women who were interested in literature. The Hawthorne club was an organization for men interested in extemporaneous speaking. On the right, the man in the foreground is Rae Logan; second man down is Josiah Moore. Grace Flynn is the second woman on the right hand side, with Clarissa Spencer third, and Florence Johnson sixth. On the left side of the tablecloth, sits Montana Buswell, second, and Zena Shull, third.

The Sign of the Four, an organization in 1906 for the manipulation of the spiritual elements to the advantage of university interest, consists of (l. to r.) Charlie Buck, Rae Logan and Fred Buck.

CUB TRACKS

The literature that goes into Cub Tracks is gleaned from the productions of freshman composition classes by an editorial board composed of representatives elected from each composition section. Faculty advisors, who are changed each quarter, this year were professors John Mackey (left above), winter quarter, and H. G. Merriam (right), fall quarter.

FORESTRY KAIMIN

Forestry Kaimin, the foresters' yearbook, comes out each spring reviewing the year's activities, summer work and classes. Editor Sterling Wardell (left) is adding as a special feature this year some overseas pictures of the forestry school's veterans. This will be the first issue since World War II.

M Book is published each fall, primarily for the freshman students. A "key to the campus," the M Book introduces new students to the songs, traditions, organizations and the constitution of the Associated Students of Montana State University. Editor of the 1945-46 M Book is Lois Pat Nelson (right top).

Editor Agnes Regan Gell and Business Manager Tommie Lou Rush look over their fall issue of stories, articles and poetry.

MOUNTAINEER

The Mountaineer offers a channel of expression to the literary-minded on the campus. Started in 1941, by Robert Wylder, it succeeded two other notable literary publications, the Sluice Box and Frontier and Midland. This year the magazine found it necessary to solicit advertising to supplement its Central Board appropriation.

Garnet Sethne wouldn't need to rob her piggy bank if she had a checking account at the First National Bank.

Muriel Wilson has precision time on her hand with her new watch from the Kohn Jewelry Co.

Thine Reed examines figurines in the wonderland of gifts and accessories at Cecil's Accessory Shop.

Looking through her scrapbook from the Gift Shop, Barbara Granert relives her fun packed year at MSU.

Wilbur Scott cinches future snacks by storing his butter from the Gold Medal Dairies in a safe place.

MISSOULA

Ron MacDonald steps into a woman's world at Cummins to purchase a housecoat for his wife's birthday.

From the frying pan to the plate comes crispy chicken from Bedard's Chicken Bar for Bea Lloyd and Jack Schara.

Don Grigsby and Larry Wicker decide to "say it with music" as they select records from the Sigma Nu's record cabinet purchased at Hette's Music Shop.

Don Pedersen relaxes under a study lamp from Lucy's Furniture Store.

Jean Cornall and Jack Perry sparkle on the dance floor at the Northern.

Kay Schmalhorst reaches for the best in "packaged glamour" at the Hollyoak Drug.

Bob Schottlekorh makes sure there will be a "Ford in His Future" by signing at the top of the waiting list for the 1946 model from the H. O. Bell Co.

MISSOULA

Jane Cheadle reflects distinctive glamour in her date suit from Buttreys. . . .

She sees her date shoes scientifically fitted at Dixon and Hoon. . . .

DRAMA

"I want you to go . . ." Lob (Arnold Berger) throws a temper tantrum to get his visitors into the enchanted forest where they will have the chance to re-live their lives.

Left to right are Mabel Purdie (Barbara Wayne), whose husband continually chases other women; Alice Dearth (Eileen Plumb), whose husband is simply not interested; Purdie (A. C. Hartpence), the philanderer; Lady Caroline (Leona Reichelt), the unhappy duchess; Joanna (Dale Ryan), latest object of Purdie's affections; and Mrs. Coade (Wilma Oksendahl), wife of contented but shiftless Coade (Bob Seitz).

In the forest former identities are forgotten. Alice Dearth begs a few pennies from Dearth who has become supremely happy with the daughter (Joan Carroll), he has always wanted.

Giggling wood sprites (Jeanne Gilbert, Dorothy Reilly, Virginia Woods, Audrey Averill and Judy Beeler), transform stage from living room to the gloom of the forest before the eyes of the audience in clever scene-changing act.

Lady Caroline, who was so unhappy over her marriage to an unscrupulous duke, comes out of the forest with Matey, the former butler who had been a petty thief, and is now one on a grand scale. Purdie (left), when married to Mabel, made love to Joanna; in the forest scene Joanna is his wife and he carries on a secret love affair with Mabel.

DEAR BRUTUS

by James M. Hearn

"The fault, dear Brutus, is not in our stars but in ourselves that we are underlings."

Into the enchanted forest, one midsummer's eve, wizard Lob sends ten unhappy, discontented people. All blame their unsatisfying existences on their circumstances, so they are given a second chance at their lives.

But their ways are not changed: the petty thief becomes a millionaire exploiter of men; the wife who starved for love is starving and begging for food; the complacent and worthless husband is as carefree and irresponsible as ever.

All, in the end, come to realize that it is not circumstances but their own nature that makes them what they are. And what they are, they can never change.

Edwin Hearn directed MSU's dramatic productions for 1944-45 and did an outstanding job of set designing for "Dear Brutus." Mr. Hearn left MSU to become technical director for the Cleveland Playhouse at the end of last summer's term.

Lady Caroline tells her Matey how wonderful he is and Matey entirely agrees (right).

"I'm sorry, Hubert . . ." After Danny (Joe Kelly) has been with them for a short time Olivia (Jeanne Gilbert) loses interest in old suitor Hubert (David Anderson), refuses his marriage proposal.

"Doesn't he look sweet . . ." Police questioning about the headless body is too much for hatbox-carrying Danny's nerves, and he passes out as they leave. Mrs. Terrence (Grace Mortensen) and Nurse Libby (Edna Fitzmaurice) try to revive him.

Danny has eye on Mrs. Bramson's (Gladys Templeton) money, makes her fall in love with him while plotting her murder. Here she gushingly allows him to kibitz her solitaire game after flying into a rage when niece Olivia had tried.

NIGHT MUST FALL

Summer Production

Elderly Mrs. Bramson and her niece Olivia take in, and both fall in love with soft-soaping stranger Danny, just before a headless body is found in the woods near their cottage. Danny carries an ominous hatbox throughout the play which the audience suspects contains the missing head, but it is never opened and the murderer is not found. Danny ends up by murdering Mrs. Bramson for her money and being caught by the police.

Danny massages neck of love-stricken Mrs. Bramson (above) shortly afterward smothers her with a pillow, takes key to straitjacket from maid, locks her back and goes after the money. Police get him for his murder, but the headless body remains a mystery. Everyone knows, of course, that the murderer may have been Danny.

Hobbs describes in gory detail how the headless body of a woman has been discovered in the woods near the cottage. Listening are Inspector Beldize (Ray Spencer), Mrs. Bramson, Olivia and Mrs. Terence (Lena Lingo) (not pictured) who played the part of the Bramsons' maid, first introduced Danny into the household.

Mr. Antrobus (Edison Spriggs) represented the ever-attending human throughout the ages. Here he campaigns for president of the animals at the Atlantic City convention, while Mrs. Antrobus (Jo Stafford) lends moral support.

Spoiled son Henry (Lester Margetts), left, is the epitome of evil. In climax of last act Henry returns from the war, Mr. and Mrs. Antrobus and Sabina (Eileen Plumb), center, the ever present "other woman," face him courageously, knowing that right and good will always triumph.

Gypsy fortune teller (Mary V. Harris) contemplates man's folly and his failure to heed the signals of approaching doom.

THE SKIN OF OUR TEETH

by Thornton Wilder

In the setting of all eternity, this comedy-drama depicted the history of man and his ability to hang on by the skin of his teeth, surviving "fire, flood, pestilence, the seven-year locust, the ice age, the black pox, and the double lecture, a dozen wars and as many depressions."

Wilder.

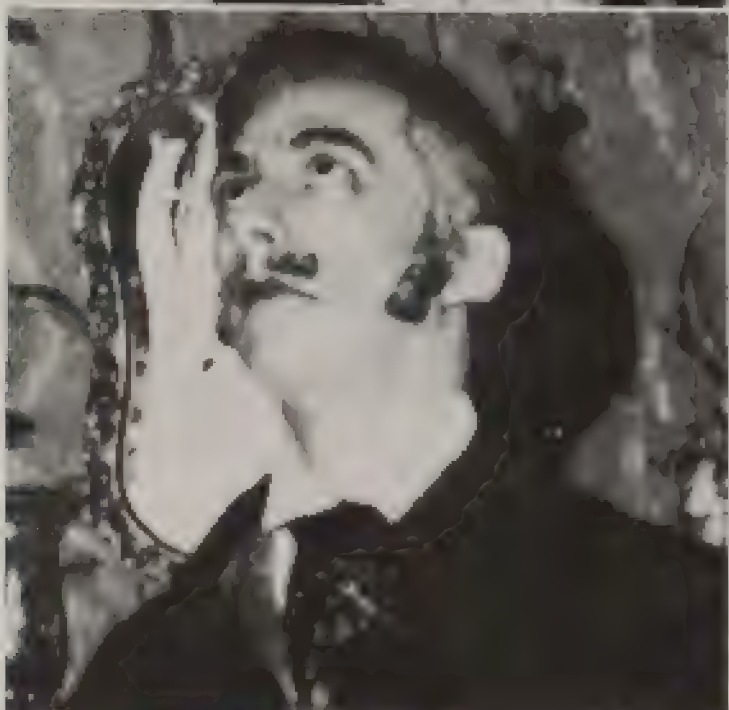

Thornton Wilder's Broadway hit was presented during the summer season under the direction of Horace W. Robinson, visiting professor from the University of Oregon.

Conversers stroll Atlantic City's Board Walk and take in the possessions, oblivious to the seer's warnings of coming flood and war. Antiochus lastly is at extreme right.

Sally Rooney (left) as the wife of diabolical Mr. Manningham whose systematic persecution succeeds in convincing her that she is losing her mind.

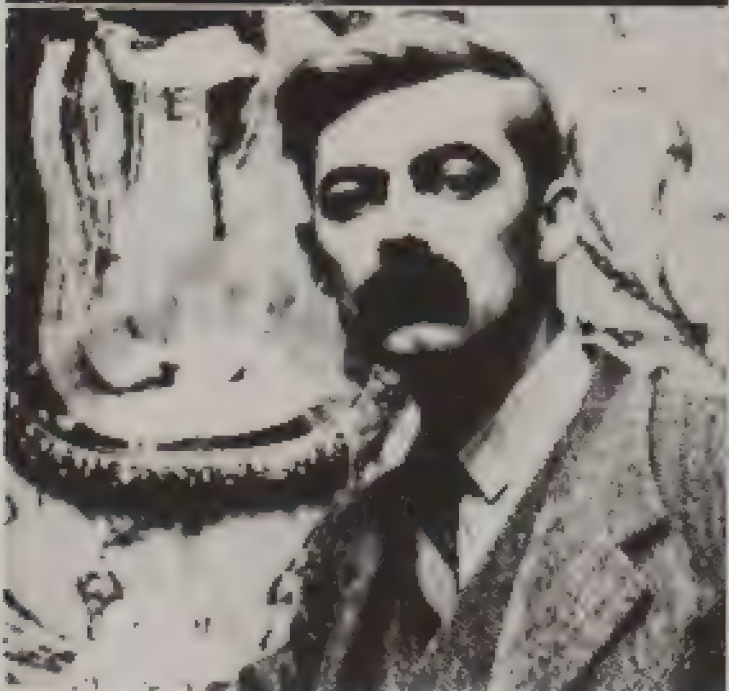

Lester Margetts (center), left, as Mr. Manningham, tries to drive his wife mad and obtain the house he has bought with her money. Years ago he murdered an old woman in the house but failed to find her fortune in rubies. He is convinced they still remain in the house and has spent 15 years planning to obtain them.

Walter King (bottom left), as Rough the detective, worked on the unsolved murder 15 years ago. He finally finds proof of Manningham's guilt and intervenes to save Mrs. Manningham before her husband destroys her.

Lois Goodell (bottom center), as the cook, wants to help Mrs. Manningham, aids Rough in finding proof of Manningham's identity and guilt.

Darlene Sylvester, as the saucy little maid, hates Mrs. Manningham and flirts continually with Mr. Manningham.

ANGEL STREET

"Angel Street," which was made into the movie "Gas Light," is a drama of Victorian England, packed with mystery and suspense, whose characters and tense atmosphere sent many a chill down the backs of the audience in the Masquer production this fall. The story is of a man whose every action for fifteen years has been directed toward finding some rubies for which he committed murder. The action takes place in an old house, the scene of the long forgotten murder, which now belongs to his wife. The murderer plots to drive his wife mad, obtain her house and be free to search for the rubies he believes still hidden in it.

Ronald Bel Stiller became director of dramatics at MSU this fall, coming to Montana after a three year term in the Army in England. He received training in dramatics at the Yale School of Drama, and taught at Grinnell, Iowa, before going into the Army.

Virginia Brown, dramatics assistant.

On the Angel Street production staff—Connie Rachac, Jean Bessire, Maiben Malee, Jean Campbell.

The police apprehend Manningham after his wife and Bough have made him confess his murders. The cook looks on at right.

Ruth and Elvira in the spirit world are not on very sisterly terms (top left). Dr. Bradman and his wife accept invitation to the seance Charles holds, but never do become convinced of spiritualism (middle left). Madame Aratti hypnotizes Edith the maid in preparation for their contact with the other world (bottom left).

BLITHE SPIRIT

Noel Coward's "improbable farce" concerns the dilemma of a man plagued by the spirits of his two dead wives. While writing a novel on spiritualism he has invited a medium to his house for a demonstration. During the seance the spirit of the man's first wife who has died materializes and becomes insanely jealous when she discovers he has married again. She plots to kill her husband so that they can both be in the spirit world and be reunited as husband and wife, but by mistake she kills his wife. The two wives' spirits then give him no end of trouble until he finally is able, with the assistance of the medium, to get rid of them both.

SQUARING THE CIRCLE

Edison Spriggs directed and staged Squaring the Circle as a salon play in the Copper room during winter quarter. The play, a Russian one, is a farcical satire on Communist love and marriage in a period of free love. The action takes place in a single crowded tenement room where two married couples live, and centers around the conflict of the new social ethics and the torments of youthful love.

Director Edison Spriggs as Emilian, the "poet of the masses."

Rudy Koch and Roxie Milburn, at left of table, are husband and wife, as are Hal Martin and Joan Carroll. But as they "square the circle" their formal marriage makes very little difference.

COMMUNITY CONCERT

The first program offered by the Concert Association was the Columbia Grand Opera Quartet (not pictured), composed of Mimi Benzell, soprano; William Horne, tenor; Helen Olheim, mezzo soprano, and John Baker, baritone.

During Christmas vacation Rosario and Antonio and Company, fiery Spanish dancers, came to the Student Union stage.

The last artist in the year's concert series was Violinist Carroll Glenn.

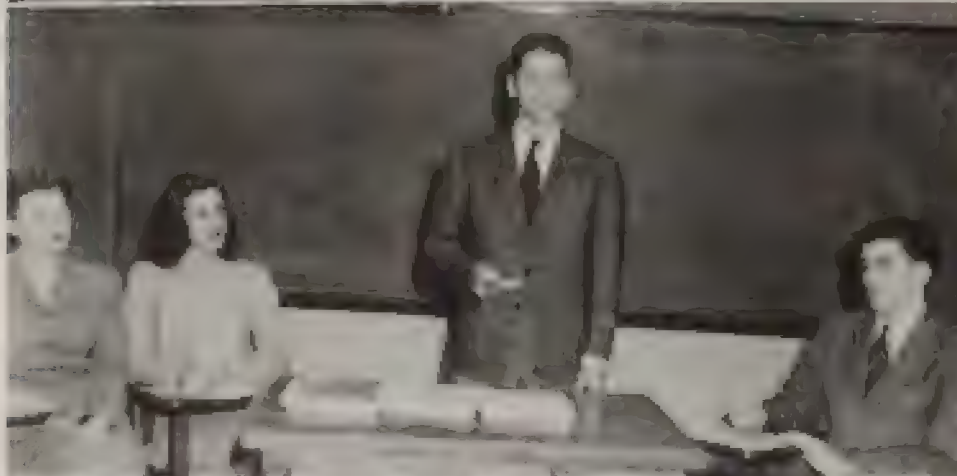

The great negro singer Paul Robeson, here pictured speaking with John Lester and Clinton Oster, presented the outstanding concert of the year. On the same program was the young pianist William Schatzkamer.

DEBATE AND RADIO

Debate coach Ralph Y. McGinnis and team captain Bob Nott chat behind team trophies.

During the winter debaters Notti and Philips represented the school in a tournament at Linfield College, McMinnville, Oregon, getting as far as the finals before they were eliminated. There were several other trips projected for later in spring quarter, one of them to Purdue.

Jo Ann Ryan, Marge Emery and Ed Philips listen as Nott expounds on free trade.

The debaters check over their speeches before the contest begins.

The pictures above are of the first University Hour broadcast of the year. The regular weekly broadcast is sponsored by the Music School and sent to various radio stations around the state to keep Montanans informed of the activities of the University. It is under the direction of Otis J. Bue of the Journalism School. At left President James A. McCain makes a statement of policy; The Jubileers (center) who were organized to provide music for the broadcast have since made a statewide tour singing to high school and public audiences; right above, announcer Edison Spriggs signs the program off the air.

The two masters in education that were offered under the philosophy department in 1904 have expanded through the years into a school offering a master's degree in Education. The school, which was established in 1930, now provides professional training for both a broad background, practical work for teachers of elementary grades, advanced preparation for superintendents, principals, school supervisors and leaders in adult educational programs.

Born through a need of technical training for members of the Ranger Service, the Forestry School originated on the campus in 1912 under the direction of Dr. J. E. Kirkwood and Professor Dorr Skeels of the Botany department. Classes were held in Main Hall.

The first Forestry building, now the Correspondence School, was erected back of Main Hall in 1914 and served until 1921 when the present building was finished.

In 1926 the State Forest and Conservation Experiment Station was placed under the direction of the School of Forestry. Included in the experiment station is the nursery, which has a capacity of a yearly growth of one million saplings.

Among social organizations of the school are the Forestry club, organized in 1914 and composed of all members and faculty of the school, and Druids, a Forestry school honorary fraternity. The Foresters' Ball, first introduced by members of the Hammaers school in 1911, has been held yearly since that time except for the war years and ranks high on the list of University social functions.

Edward B. Dugan,
Assistant Professor of Journalism

With the dedication of the Journalism building to the memory of Dean Emeritus A. L. Stone, in February the Journalism department reached another milestone in its history which dates back to 1914.

In the fall of that year, Mr. Stone resumed his position as editor of The Missoulian to become dean of a journalism school which existed only in the minds of University officials. At the time of his arrival on the campus, no building was available to house the school, a condition temporarily remedied by the loan of tents from Fort Missoula. The tents were pitched in front of what is now the Women's gym. Classes were opened for students interested in learning journalism—with eager hardy souls snowed out the cold.

In an effort to obtain a building to house the journalism department, Dean Stone circulated pictures and stories of Montana's school to several newspapers and periodicals. The host of letters received by Governor S. V. Stewart brought a promise from the governor to erect a building for the school. Late in November, a bicycle shed took the place of the tents and still later a frame building was erected behind Old Science hall to house the Journalism school until 1921 and was promptly nicknamed "The Shack."

Sigma Delta Chi, men's national journalism fraternity, was introduced on the campus in January, 1915, followed by Theta Sigma Phi, women's national journalism fraternity, in April, 1916.

In 1918, Clark and Hopkins halls, built to serve as barracks for a Student Army Training program, were vacated and in 1921 the Journalism school moved into Cook hall, where it remained until 1937.

Largely through the efforts of Dean Stone, a federal works project for a new Journalism building was approved in July, 1936, with excavation beginning in September, 1936, and construction completed in October, 1937. Formal dedication of the building took place on December 12, 1937. Dean Stone continued as head of the school until 1942, when he received the title of Dean Emeritus and was succeeded by Dean James L. C. Ford of the University of California. The death of Dean Stone on March 19, 1945, brought an end to the career of one of Montana's most colorful figures and ablest journalists.

The present Journalism school with its modern building including a library, reception, museum, editorial offices, and composing department and with its able staff is a far cry from the situation which greeted Dean Stone upon his arrival on the campus in the fall of 1914.

Present enrollment in the Journalism school is 115, with students enrolled from eight states. Among publications printed in the building are The Kaimin, a twice-weekly newspaper for University students; The Montana High School Editor, with circulation to most of the high schools of the state; The University News Bulletin, and Communique, a senior class publication for journalism school alumni.

Seventeen prospective barristers entered the newly opened doors of the Montana Law School in the fall of 1911 and three professors began instruction on the third floor of Main Hall in cramped classrooms whose character soon earned them the name of "The Back Hole at Helena." In 1914 five of the seventeen students had completed their courses and earned their degrees. The Law School then in the basement of the Library was admitted to the Association of American Law Schools, the first school in the Northwest to receive the honor.

The enrollment had grown to almost 100 when the World War began to drain off the male attendance. In 1918 the school had not a single student but after the war it resumed its steady growth, and in 1923 when the present library was built the old one was remodeled to provide a modern, well equipped building for the Law School. The working library of the school has grown to over 29,000 volumes.

Glee club tours have been revived this year under the direction of Norman Gulbrandsen, whose "Jubileers," as they are called, have also presented a series of weekly radio programs.

The school today has grown to over 70 students and is equipped to graduate students in all branches and degrees in pharmacy.

The school maintains a small plot on the south side of the campus for the raising of medicinal plants for laboratory research and drug manufacture. More than half of the drugs used by the University Health Service are compounded in the Pharmacy School.

Dr. Curtis H. Waldon became dean of the school this year, succeeding Dean Mollett.

At the end of the last war when the great need was felt for continual military preparedness, the Reserve Officers Training Corps was organized on the campus under the National Defense Act. During the fall quarter of 1919 the Student Army Training Corps, that had been organized during the war to train fighting men in scholastic and military subjects at the same time, had been present on the campus. It was discontinued however, partly because of the armistice and partly because of an influenza epidemic. The ROTC took over winter quarter.

The advanced training in military science that has been given, up until the present war, for men who wish to earn an army commission, has been resumed again this year and summer camp will again be held.

Affiliated School of RELIGION

Harvey F. Baty,
Assistant professor of Religion and director of the Affiliated School of Religion, chats with Tannissee Brown.

The inter-denominational School of Religion provides "scientific instruction in religion . . . and its application to the problems of humanity." Since it is not supported by the state it has always depended on contributions from several faith denominations and individual Montanans who are interested in its work, and consequently has often experienced great difficulty in continuing since its founding on the campus in 1923.

The school at first had to be located off the campus since local congregations were sceptical about the inter-church aspects of it and the state board was very cool toward the idea of religion on the campus. In 1925 the school was given an office in the old student store and classes were taught "to the accompaniment of coke conversation at the fountain below."

The school now conducts classes in regular University classrooms and provides an inter-church pastor who gives his full time to student work and counseling.

LIBRARY

The present University library of over 155,000 volumes started as the personal book collection of Dr. Oscar J. Craig, the school's first president, who with several other persons and townspeople donated a total of 1,000 books when the school was established. The books were first housed in a small room in the Willard school. When Main Hall was built the library had increased to 1,500 volumes and moved there and later to what is now the Law Building.

But with the rapid growth of the library the space available became insufficient and many books and publications had to be stored under the benches and other places on the campus until in 1923 the present commodious modern building costing $250,000 was completed and the library moved in.

During the war this library has been designated as the War Information Center for the state by the U. S. Office of Education, and has received many publications on wartime and postwar problems which have been available to people throughout the state. As a part of this wartime program the library conducted a series of radio programs over KGOV called "Reading for Warheads."

SIGMA CHI

President Terry Anderson at the keyboard and House Manager Bob Nott.

The Agreement at Sigma Chi's first business. A national Sigma Chi tradition is the choosing of a "Sweetheart" from campus coeds. Freshman Susan Kappa Kappa Gamma was chosen with national and chosen from 21 candidates and presented with jeweled Sigma Chi cross at winter quarter Sweetheart Ball. The other four finalists were Susan Tottan, Kappa Kappa Gamma, Barbara Green, Thelma Hill, Pat Miller, Susan Kappa Gamma, and Jane Thomas, Kappa Alpha Theta.

Members Kelly, Stan, Patricia, Eva, Mabel, Ann, Albert, Paul, Ryan, Mary Johnson, John Rollson and Joan Kuka slurp noodles from chop sticks in snuggly rows during party at the house.

Sigma Chi spooks try to contact spirit of dead brother Ernie in Theta Siberia. According to tradition one of the brothers died while Sigma Chis were living in house which now belongs to the Thetas. Each year on some dark night around Halloween the spirit comes back and goes on rampage through girls' sleeping quarters.

"Girls on the left, boys on the right." "Girls" and "Boys" turning fast circle two-step at fall quarter Kid Party.

Jeanne Hough helps serve the delicious cheese toasties prepared on the electric range by Mrs. Weeks, while Mrs. Keith, housemother, cuts generous portions of pie.

Although this picture was taken at the KKG house it could well have been almost any of the others, for practically every house enjoys all-electric kitchens.

Right behind Jeanne, note the handy switch and the double convenience outlet ready for any smaller electrical helper such as coffee-makers, mixers or grinders.

The big, roomy electric refrigerator behind Mrs. Keith has plenty of space for perishables; keeping them fresh and crisp at just the right temperature. The speed, cleanliness and low operational cost is the reason all-electric kitchens are popular.

The Montana Grizzlies—1945

Little can be said about the Utah State game. We were badly beaten. The Aggies scored four touchdowns in the first quarter, one in the second and one in the third. Wally Stephens tallied for the Grizzlies just before the half ended; Eddie Gallagher brought Montana's total to 13 with a fourth period plunge from the five yard line. The Grizzlies drove to 10 first downs to Utah's 14, but the complete lack of any kind of a defense was fatal.

IDAHO 46, MONTANA 0

The Idaho debacle was even worse than the Utah State. Everything that could possibly have gone wrong did. Gallagher was injured when he was most needed. The Vandals, in running the highest margin of victory in history over Montana, put on a trackmeet of touchdowns to the delight of a huge homecoming crowd anxious for Idaho's first post-war victory. Montana was outclassed from the start, never having a chance.

FARRAGUT 21, MONTANA 13

Return game—Farragut 18, Montana 13

Everyone, including Farragut, expected Navy to slap Montana down by five or six touchdowns, but Jiggs and the Grizzlies thought differently. Playing inspired ball, the Montanans fought mighty and undefeated Farragut to a standstill. The Navy managed to win 21 to 13, but only after the Grizzlies had captured the hearts of the pro-Navy crowd by their dauntless spirit.

In a wild-scoring return game here Thanksgiving day Farragut repeated its earlier win, but only after the lead had changed hands six times during the fray. After the Farragut games MSU was duly proud of its small but fighting Grizzly team of 1945.

MONTANA 36, POCATELLO MARINES 6

For the first time since 1941 the victory bell in Main hall clanged with news of a Montana victory in football. The revamped Grizzlies turned a powerhouse of fast backs loose on the weak Marine line and that's all to the story. Montana's fortunes had at last begun to turn up. The addition of Drahos, Rossmiller, Mufich and O'Loughlin was a shot in the arm that put new life into the rest of the team.

Doug Fossenden, Grizzly head coach since 1935, returned to the team winter quarter after a three-year stretch coaching Army teams. Doug went into the Army as a captain in 1942 and was made director of physical education at HTCB at Miami Beach, Florida. He was transferred to Amarillo Army Air Field to continue similar duties (and was then sent to Denver to become physical training director of the entire Air Force Technical Training command west of the Mississippi. He came into an even bigger job at San Antonio, where he set up a training school for officers and non-coms of the entire Continental Air Force, and became its supervisor. His last job was at Fort Worth coaching the Army Air Force Training command Skymasters who led for first place in the national A. A. F. football league. For his work he received special commendation from Lt. Gen. Burton K. Young and Maj. Gen. James Hodges.

Cheney's speedy Savages proved to be the only squad able to make a clean sweep over the Grizzlies. Playing at home in December, the Montanans pushed the Washington school to the limit before falling. Cheney won the first, despite 19 points by Dale Clawson, 47 to 53, and the second 56 to 50 after a 47-to-47 tie forced an overtime period. In both games the Grizzlies were ahead at haltime.

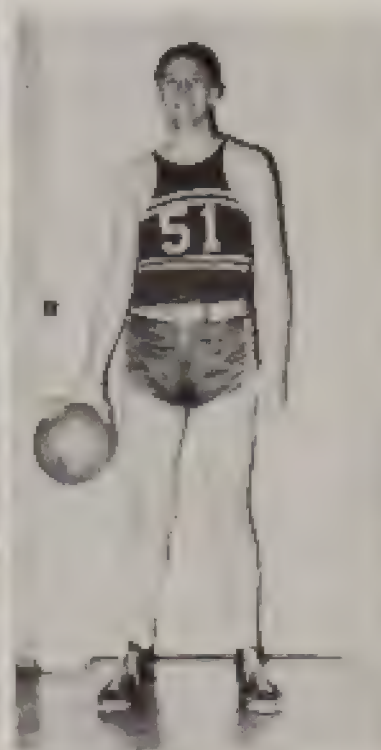

With a completely different squad Coach Dahlberg and crew invaded Cheney in January, but were badly handicapped by illness. The more experienced Savages had little trouble in downing the Grizzlies 61 to 53, and 57 to 26.

The following night Montana repeated 69 to 42 with Lou Rocheleau leading 17 points. In Spokane Bulldogs broke the University's individual scoring record as his 36 points paced a 78-to-54 win over the outclassed Bulldogs. The second night the Grizzlies again went over the century mark, winning 102 to 49.

When the Grizzlies wanted to win most against the Bobcats, they couldn't seem to find the basket. Montana State took the Treasure State crown for 1946 by winning three of four hardfought games with the Grizzlies.

Opening the series in Bozeman, the Grizzlies tried desperately but the Aggies came out on the long end at 66 to 51 and 64 to 57 scores.

In Missoula the Grizzlies again tried too hard, played tight ball, losing the opener 63 to 59. With the pressure all them and the Aggies already sitting on the throne, the Silvertips played ball they were capable of, winning 80 to 60 with Johnny Holding dropping 22 points through the hoop.

Opposing coaches: H. B. Lee, Utah State; John Breeden, Montana State; "Babe" Brown, Idaho; "Iggs" Dahlberg, Montana.

TRI-TOURNAMENT

Talking things over before the luncheon.

The University of Idaho Vandals, who went on to win the Pacific Coast Northern Division Championship, took home the trophy from Montana State University's first annual Intercollegiate tournament, played in Missoula high school gym December 14 and 15.

The Grizzlies placed third, downing Montana State 46 to 41 after having been beaten out of a chance at the crown by a heartbreaking 37-to-36 loss at the hands of Utah State. Idaho went through the tourney undefeated, beating Montana State 48 to 34 in the opening round and Utah State 55 to 33 in the title game.

Len Pyne, Idaho guard, was high scorer for the tournament with a total of 31 points; Grizzlies Dale Clawson and Duane Baracker ranked second and third in total scoring with 27 and 24 points.

Montana did not field a track team in 1945. Coach Jim Brown of the Grizzly tracksters reveals that he has some outstanding prospects in men like Lou Crosby in the shot; Hank Purdy in the shot; Jim Mayes (left with Jiggs Dahlberg) in the pole vault; Gene Flemming in the hurdles and broadjump; Dan Ducich in the discus, and Dan Yovetich in the hurdles.

Minor sports got on its feet this year after a three year "no-can-do" period. Minor sports cover Intramural touch football, basketball, softball, baseball, swimming, tennis and bowling.

Phi Delta Theta grabbed the Intramural touchball championship, defeating Sigma Alpha Epsilon in the Clover Bowl Title game.

The SAE's then gained sweet revenge on the Phi Delts during basketball season by taking the crown in a close final game with the Phi Delts.

Sigma Nu won the Inter-fraternity bowling championship, defeating Theta Chi for the championship.

Hard-working Bill Tremper of Missoula, strove to have a Grizzly swimming team this year, but when he did get a squad of mermen together, he was unable to arrange any meets.

Last fall a movement was made to improve the tennis courts and start tennis tournaments. This winter tennis was appropriated money by Minor Sports Board for intercollegiate meets. University teams have been organized and will soon be pounding the courts.

It was announced late this year that baseball would be revived as a major sport next year for the first time since 1929.

Edward S. Chinske, Grizzly star of the late '20's, was named head coach and will join the MSU faculty July 1.

Potential diamond-men this season turned their talents to the intramural softball league.

SOS

Singing on the Steps is one of the oldest MSU traditions. On Thursday evenings appointed by Traditions board, students gather at the Main Hall steps at 7:30 for group singing and special programs. Then as the tower clock strikes eight the program stops and the people stroll away singing "College Chorus." SOS is usually a time for the presentation of political candidates during campus elections likewise Christmas carols just before vacation, and special presentation of interesting campus personalities. Left is spring SOS. Below, presentation of Mortar Board.

PEP RALLY

The numerous shrubs and trees, the flowers, as pansies, Marigolds and other local favorites in the garden in Mass. Park is numerous. The grounds in the campus will have to be well treated. Whereas a Marigold was an official flower, it is the traditional duty of the students to find out the name, by the names, Edward Everett, George W. Allen, and John James, and the other, Gary Nelson, James Murray, and George A. Allen.
